USE GOOD ENGLISH

NORMAN HACKETT IN LECTURE URGES PUPILS TO TALK WELL.

DELIVERS PLEASING TALK IN HIGH SCHOOL HALL THIS MORNING.

Describes Visit to Stratford-on-Avon Plays in Ann Arbor This Evening.

Mr. Norman Hackett, who plays in "Satan Sanderson," in the New Whitney theatre in Ann Arbor this evening addressed the pupils of the Ypsilanti high school this morning in a speech which is considered to have been one of the most notably brilliant ever given in that place.

Mr. Hackett introduced the subject of Shakespeare's plays by describing somewhat the visit he had paid to Stratford on Avon. He told most entertainingly how this master should be studied, and of the way he should be interpreted Mr. Hackett himself gave the most inspiring and marvelous examples.

The beauty and desirability of using pure English was one of the most valuable points Mr. Hackett made in his talk. It takes no longer to pronounce a word correctly and beautifully than in a false and slovenly way, he contended, and when young, particularly, correct English may be acquired as easily as incorrect. Mr. Hackett's own diction, as well as his quality of voice and enunciation, were beautiful. It is felt that the visit and talk of this distinguished actor has given a pleasant impetus to the every-day but uncommon gift of beautiful speech.

MAKES STRONG PLEA FOR HONESTY IN ALL THINGS AT ALL TIMES

Hugh Chalmers, president of the Chalmers Motor Co., who will speak at the commencement of the Cleary Business College, October 28, says that a man who isn't honest in his business is a fool.

"He must be absolutely honest in the thing he sells, for he cannot be sincere in what he says about that thing unless it is absolutely honest. And you can't tell customers about a thing you don't believe yourself and convince them for very long. Thoughts are pretty tangible things after all; you can't throw insincere thoughts at a man and have him catch sincere thoughts, any more than I can throw a brick at a man and have him catch a pillow. That's why the modern business man simply must be honest."

This is not a pose with Hugh Chalmers; it's a sincere belief of his, a rule of his life; almost a creed and he believes all men should adopt it.

DUFFY GIVES COURT A SURPRISE WHEN HE ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

Matthew Duffy who was arrested Monday night on a charge of drunkenness was arraigned before Justice Stadtmiller Tuesday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty and his trial is set for Tuesday morning at nine o'clock. He was released on $100 bail.

A few weeks ago Duffy was arrested on a similar charge and was allowed to go on payment of costs by signing the pledge and promising to abstain from the use of liquor for one year. The officers have been lenient with him with the hope that he might reform and now he springs a surprise on them by pleading not guilty although he was picked up in a yard on Ellis street too intoxicated to walk.

FACULTY RECITAL

FIRST OF WINTER SERIES WILL BE GIVEN AT NORMAL FRIDAY EVENING.

ARCHIBALD JACKSON, BARITONE, TO DO SOLO WORK WITH GOOD ACCOMPANIMENTS.

Miss Mary Dickinsan to be at Piano; Miss Owen and Prof. Alexander to Present Abenlied.

The first faculty recital of the season will be given Friday evening in Normal hall at eight o'clock. This series contemplates a succession of musical treats for the city; the programs are to be rather unusual, and in all cases they will be most interesting.

The program Friday evening will be given by Miss Mary Dickinson, pianist, Miss Abba Owen, violinist, Professor Frederick Alexander, organist, and Mr. Archibald C. Jackson, baritone.

This will be Miss Dickinson's first appearance in some time. She will be heard in a Minuet by Schubert, a Gavotte by Bach arranged by Leschetizky, and an Intermezzo by Leschetizky.

Miss Owen and Mr. Alexander will present for the first time in Ypsilanti a certain Abendlied by Rheinberger. Another composition which is very lovely and is not often played is Massenet's "Le Dernier Sommeil de la Vierge," which composition for the violin and organ Miss Owen and Mr. Alexander will also play.

Mr. Jackson is always heard in interesting things, and on this occasion they will comprise a group of English songs, a group of German songs by Beethoven and Schubert, an aria from Massenet's "Herodiade," and a Gloria by Buzzi-Peccia.

These numbers constitute a recital program of rare beauty and is certain to yield a rich measure of enjoyment to music-lovers.

GIANTS PROLONG SERIES BY STRONG FIGHT-SCORE 4 to 3

New York, Oct. 25.—The New York Giants pulled out of the last ditch today when they stopped the world's series from closing by a close victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The score was 4 and 3. With three victories out of four games played the American league leaders needed but one more game to clinch the title for 1911.

The eve of the fifth struggle today saw the same big crowd moving toward the Polo grounds, and though the home team seemed to have but a bare chance of victory still there was no lack of enthusiasm and interest and the attendance was fully as large as at the previous games here.

The betting was 4 to 1 against New York.

High team score went to the Travelers' Cafe with 803 while Wilcoxson captured high score with 211 and also high average with 173. The score:

WYANDOTTE - YPSI ROAD

PLANS ARE MADE BY DETROIT MAN TO BUILD NEW ELECTRIC LINE.

Plans are being made by P. N. Jacobson of Detroit to build a railway from Wyandotte through to Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor. The proposed road would be 40 miles in length, in a field where the average population is 900 persons to the mile and that the approximate cost would be $1,250,000. The purpose of the road would be to bring to Wyandotte the Wabash and Ann Arbor railroads and afford a short cut for the Michigan Central and Lake Shore railways to Wyandotte; also to put the Grand Trunk, D., T. and I. and Lake Shore into Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. The road is to be operated for passenger service in the day time by using the modern electric gasoline cars. There is a probability that if this line should be put in that it might later be extended to Lansing and Grand Rapids.

MRS. BURTON TELLS ABOUT THE MERITS OF LONG WALKS

Mrs. Fannie Cheever Burton has been asked so many times regarding the walking which has been instituted this fall for the beginning students that the following statement of her views concerning it has been secured:

"As the number of students has increased each year, the length of time required to make the physical examinations has grown longer, and this takes the time of all the teachers of the department, it has meant that no classes were organized for about three weeks. The thought came to me last year that there was great need for something to give the girls who are strangers a chance to become acquainted and to become familiar with their surroundings, so the plan was made to send each class out with a leader for a walk of from 20 to 45 minutes in length.

"These walks have revealed various attitudes of minds, which have been interesting and in some cases amusing. About twenty-five were found for whom walking seemed unwise. A few finding anything so energetic distasteful, have developed 'blistered' heels, 'pains in legs' and 'offending corns.' But the large majority have been very happy in them.

"In all, about six hundred have walked every day. Usually, they have chosen their own partners; occasionally devices have been used to break up set combinations, and make acquaintances more general. On the longer walks, the roll has been taken at about half the distance and all who desired were allowed to turn back.

"On one of the last walks the girls went out by twos and threes, without leaders, going where they chose, Each was given a bit of paper and they were asked to make a memorandum of the route they took, bringing in the slips on return. All stayed out the greater part of the hour. Some used the time for delayed errands. Some went about the town, becoming familiar with the streets, and a number chose the near-by roads and fields, a few going as far as the waterworks.

On Monday the classes came indoors for regular work, and we feel in retrospect that the plan has been a success. The girls know the members of their class, they know the town and its environment, and best of all, they all gained the helpful sense of 'out of doors' which comes with a good walk."

CHINESE REBELS TO ESTABLISH CAPITAL

CITIES THROWN INTO PANIC BY THREATS OF INSURGENT LEADERS-DISCOURAGING NEWS FROM SOUTH

All Eyes Are Turned To "Strong Man Of China" Many Fear He Will Join Rebel Forces-Manchu officials Support Cause

Shanghai, China, Oct. 25.—The capture of Chang-Chou by the revolutionists was anounced in dispatches which reached here this afternoon. From a strategic point of view this city should prove of great value to the rebels. It is the junction of the Kai-Fung and Peking-Hankow railroads and is located 250 miles north of Hankow. Its capture apparently cuts off from Peking all the imperial troops now gathering around Hankow and Wu-Chang.

Today's news from the lower Yangtse valley was all discouraging to the government. With Kiu-Kiang in undisputed possession of the rebels, the imperial fleet has retreated on down the river, some of the vessels being reported as far eastward as Wu Hu.

Conditions are omnious not only in Wu Hu, but also in Nanking. Most of the Manchu officials have left these two cities and are crowding into Shanghai, where every hotel is already filled with refugees.

The tatti of Shanghai today became so alarmed over the possibility of the cession of the native city to the rebels that he removed his household to the foreign settlement. The taotai of Nanking also has put himself under the same protection.

The city of SuChow is in panic owing to the revolutionary threats of 5,000 weavers whose wages have been unpaid for a long time. Revolutionary agents have announced today that the insurgents expect to establish their headquarters at Kiu-Kiang, which probably will be the revolutionary capital.

The probable attitude of Yuan Shi Kai, "the strong man of China," re-recently recalled from exile, whose "lame foot" prevented acceptance of the government's commission to put down the rebellion, is a subject of lively interest here. Yuan is everywhere regarded as the man of the hour in China. It is hinted here that he may be induced soon to give the rebel cause his active support against the Manchu dynasty.

Although the Manchu officials here continue to give out false news of the state of affairs in Chang-Sha and Kiu-Kiang and other cities in order to create an impression that the imperialists are still in control, the native press in Shanghai and in cities throughout south China has defied all censorship and is printing the most exaggerated reports of insurgent successes in all parts of the country.

It is unquestionably a fact that the entire Yangtse region and most of southern China as well is completely revolutionary in sentiment. The local government has surrendered quietly and rebel appointees have taken their places with little stir. A few Manchu officials have been killed, but most of them have joined the rebel cause.

Walter James of North Ypsilanti claims the distinction of being the youngest practical engineer in the country. He has been running his father's traction engine for the past four weeks to thresh and fill silos. F. D. KALMBACH COMMENCES SUIT AGAINST MICH. MUTUAL TORNADO CO.

Ann Arbor, Oct. 25.—Fern D. Kalmbach of Ann Arbor has commenced suit by Franklin Jones, his attorney, against the Michigan Mutual Tornado Cyclone and Windstorm Iusurance Co. of Hastings, Mich. Mr. Kapp claims $12,000 damage to his buildings in Northfield township, June 3, 1911. The company has refused payment on the ground that Mr. Kapp had not paid an assessment and Mr. Kapp claims that he has paid assessments whenever called upon to do so. The decision will probably hinge on what constitutes a sufficient and legal notice.

"YPSILANTI NOT ONLY BIGGER BUT BETTER" A GOOD SLOGAN

The Men and Religion Forward Movement, which is now in full swing for a week's work in Detroit, has adopted the slogan, "Detroit not only bigger but better," and this slogan is equally applicable and adaptable to any city or community which aspires to grow in a healthful, wholesome, rational, permanent way.

George W. Bain, 'the silver-tongued orator of Kentucky,' after looking down from the galleries for a while at the proceedings of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives, went away with the feeling which voiced itself in this remark: 'It will not do to educate the brain at the expense of the heart; for then the intellect will shine above the bosom like an electric light in a grave yard.'

We cannot create and sustain a well-balanced citizenship equally interested in those things which endure, as well as those things that are like the chaff which the wind driveth away, unless we build in behind materialism an enthusiasm for the moral aspect of things. Enthusiasm really means 'God in us.' And so, if the spiritual side of development is dwarfed or smothered, materialism reaches for the very throat of your neighbor.

We hope the Christian men, and those who profess to be Christians but do not take their religion very seriously in this city and surrounding country, will join in a similar campaign for this city and this county after the enthusiasm in Detroit has reached white heat. We ought to realize on this near-by asset and inject it into the very life-blood of our community.

We are pleased to accommodate to the uses of ourselves some observations upon this movement by the Detroit Times, as applied to the city of Detroit. We will simply substitute in Brother Schermerhorn's editorial the word 'Press' for the word 'Times,' and the word 'Ypsilanti' for the word 'Detroit':

"The Press, which has always held that it takes something besides big buildings and bank clearances to make a great city, commends the campaign of the Men and Religion Forward Movement to that portion of our busy city-builders—men in banks, stores and offices—who haven't had time to find out what it is all about.

"Perhaps we had better compare it with some of the things that they are bound to be acquainted with as city-builders.

"The 'Ypsilanti—not only bigger but better' movement is bigger than the question of good pavements and clean alleys. It seeks to build upon an abiding moral foundation.

"It is bigger than the matter of public play grounds. It is concerned about saving the boy all through for a splendid citizenship tomorrow.

"It is bigger than universal transfers. It aims at universal brotherhood.

"It is greater than eastern or central or sun time or eastern standard time. It is a matter of eternity.

"It is a larger endeavor than getting people to come to Ypsilanti. It is an effort to guarantee such social and industrial condition here that all will rejoice that they have come and be content to remain."

And to any who sort of shiver and shrink to stand up, except in a crowd, to be counted, let then be encouraged with the fact that in Detroit '1400 men sat down at dinner at the Wayne Gardens on Monday night—the largest assemblage of Detroit citizens ever witnessed at this scene of great commercial feasts and expositions"—and at last night's meeting at Light Guard Armory, to hear Fred B. Smith any timid citizen, longing for the support of a crowd, might have had his longing realized to the limit.

And it is well to remember that it is far more necessary to the proper encouragement of any good cause to be one of the early ones to help make a crowd than to be one of the later ones to help join a crowd. The Men and Religion Forward Movement ought to enlist the active cooperation of every man in the community.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

HOW EDWARD I. GOT HIS WEDDING GIFTS.

When King Edward I. of England was very sick he made a solemn vow that if restored to health he would undertake another crusade. When he recovered, however, Palestine seemed a long way off, and he compromised by driving the Jews out of one of his French provinces. Pleased with his success in this, he determined to try it on a larger scale, and banish the descendants of Abraham from England. So he issued a proclamation commanding all persons of Jewish descent to leave the country before a certain date, under penalty of death. He graciously permitted them to take along a very small portion of their worldly goods, and enough money to pay their traveling expenses. The rest of their property he appropriated to his own use and that of his friends. This brutal expulsion of the Jews he doubtless considered most timely, for shortly afterward his three daughters were married, and he was able to give each of them a grand wedding, and much jewelry of fabulous value.

BLOW UP A MINE FOR AN OBJECT LESSON IN THE WORK OF RESCUE

President Taft Will Witness Demonstration at Pittsburg on Oct. 31.

Use of the Oxygen Helmet and Other Life Saving Apparatus to Be Shown.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

ALL of us have heard several thousand times of being "butchered to make a Roman holiday." Now we are to have the blowing up of a mine to make a Pittsburg holiday. Yet there is a difference. With the Romans the object was a holiday and nothing more. They loved killing for its own sake. With the Pittsburgers the motive is just the opposite. They blow up the mine as an object lesson to prevent the blowing up of other mines in future; also to show the use of the oxygen helmet and other apparatus and to give a realistic exhibition of rescue work.

President Taft will be there. It was originally intended to hold the mine rescue exhibition on Oct. 26-27, but the dates were changed so that Mr. Taft could make it on his schedule. Pittsburg is the last point he visits before his return to Washington. The explosion will take place on the 31st, and this is the day the president will be on hand. The show, which is officially known as the mine safety demonstration, begins Oct. 30.

Nothing just like this was ever seen on earth before—not but what there have been mine explosions, too many of them. Yet there was never one made to order. The festival is exciting the interest of mining men the world around. It is under the auspices of the national bureau of mines, the American Red Cross, the United Mine Workers of America and the Pittsburg Coal Operators' association. Among those who participate are Dr. J. A. Holmes, chief of the bureau of mines; Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior; Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania and Miss Mabel Boardman of the Red Cross. The industrial department of the International Y. M. C. A. is also interested and has a representative on the board of managers.

Reviewing the Dead.

While more lives are lost in American mines than in those of most other countries, it remained for the United States to hold this exhibition in life saving that is unique in the history of mining. Indeed, nobody but an American would ever have thought of a sure enough mine explosion as a means of arresting public attention to the subject of preventing mine explosions and of safeguarding the lives of miners.

One of the most impressive spectacles of the two days will be nearly 20,000 miners marching past the reviewing stand, symbolizing the lives snuffed out in the past few years. In other words, every one of these 20,000 living miners will represent a dead miner. The press bulletins of the bureau of mines are authority for the statement that 30,000 miners have been killed in the United States in the past ten years, that 75,000 have been injured in the same time, many of them being left cripples for life; that 11,000 widows and 30,000 fatherless children have resulted and that in Europe the number of miners killed per year has been only two per 1,000, while in America it has been nearly four per 1,000. Another authority says that in Belgium, where the mines are deeper and more gassy than in the United States, the average for many years has been as low as one man per 1,000. The reason for the lower death rate in foreign mines, according to this writer, E. W. Lightner, is that for fifty years the rule abroad has been "safety first."

Who Is Responsible?

The implication is a rather ugly one. In plain English it is that with us the rule has not been "safety first." To put it in still plainer form, it is that American mine owners have been willing to sacrifice the lives of their workmen in order to make more dollars. Does this monstrous conclusion represent the truth? Well, perhaps not, put in just that way. Yet the story told by the facts and figures is bad, palliate and smooth it over as we will. Those thirty thousand dead miners are terrible accusations against somebody. That death rate of nearly 4 to the 1,000 as against one to 1,000 among the more unfavorable natural conditions of Belgium, or of 2 to 1,000 in the remainder of Europe, is a stern witness before the high court of humanity. That our mine owners, either individually or collectively, have deliberately planned such results is of course absurd. Even to put it on the low ground of money, it would have been against their interest to do so. Every miner killed or injured meant a money liability; every explosion a destruction of property. Moreover, the mine owners are now among those most ardently engaged in this laudable effort to conserve both property and life.

The case is not as bad as the implication would make it, yet it is bad enough. To put it in its worst possible form, the fault was one of carelessness—criminal negligence some would phrase it—yet even that is a trifle harsh. The fact remains that we have been so intent on developing property, on making money, that we have not properly safeguarded life, and this applies to more things in our American civilization than mining. We have murdered our soil for one thing—we have murdered our natural resources for another; perhaps we have even murdered the higher ideals of liberty, democracy and equal opportunity that gave the nation birth. In the rapid pace at which we have been going, in the vast material development that we have brought about, some things have been sacrificed, things that we need and must now revive. Yet it would hardly be just to say that this sacrifice has been wilfully made.

The trouble has been shortsightedness. We have been so intent on some things that we have overlooked others. As has happened so many times in the world's history, we have gone to an extreme. The pendulum swings, and we must return to the normal. Why can we not have the material prosperity plus the ideals? Why can we not conserve all good things, including liberty, popular rule and equality before the law and yet achieve even greater economic and industrial development? Why can we not use our soil and not destroy it? Why can we not develop our natural resources without squandering and giving them up to the control of the few? Why can we not make money and yet follow the rule of "safety first?" Others have done so, and what others have done Americans can do.

Conservation of Men.

For in essence this proposition of saving life and property is a part of the great conservation movement. It is the conserving of human beings. If it is important to save coal lands, water power sites, forests and soil fertility, it is infinitely more important to save the lives of men, to which these other things are only contributory. In the end it all comes back to that rule of "safety first." On that count, perhaps we are not guiltless. Has our first thought been of the safety of the toilers? Through bonding companies and the evasion of employers' liabilities, have we not sought to protect ourselves against the calls of those who might suffer in our employ? Have we not taken the cynical attitude that about so many were doomed to be killed anyway, instead of using every possible safety appliance and precaution to reduce the number? Have we not taken risks where risks were not called for? Have we not gambled with death for the gain of speed or of profit?

Possibly a man is justifiable in gambling with his own life, but how about gambling with the lives of others? Does not an employer gamble with the lives of others when he fails to follow the rule of "safety first" and this not only in words, but in making everything else subordinate thereto? Have we not had employers, in mines and elsewhere, who preferred to invest their money in bonding companies rather than in safety appliances? There is the rub. It makes all the difference between safety first and profit first, the difference between the viewpoint of the man who sees life as infinitely above everything else and that of the man who sees it only as a matter of dollars and cents, of profit and loss.

Coal Dust an Explosive.

Fortunately we are coming to the standard of "safety first." There is infinite hope in this. We are seeing life as more precious than dollars. We are ready to begin, or at least to promote, the conservation of men. It was for this purpose that the bureau of mines was organized. Already this agency has made great progress in the investigation of the causes of mine explosions and in devising methods of relieving the victims. The men in charge of the bureau do not believe that the chief cause of these explosions is carelessness, either on the part of the employers or employees. That is comforting and revives faith in human nature. They ascribe it to the newness of the country or, to put it plainly, to ignorance. The other countries have had to learn through long and bitter experience.

In time we shall learn the primary safeguards that European countries have been forced to adopt. For example, we have long held that floating coal dust alone would not explode. The bureau of mines is prepared to prove that it will explode and will use floating coal dust to blow up its experimental mine. To establish that one point will be a long step in advance. The bureau officials say that coal dust has been the cause of most of our mysterious mine explosions.

One of the most important features of the demonstration will be a contest in first aid to the injured. Two sets of problems of five each will be given the competing teams and forty-one companies will be represented in the contest. In the old days we had tournaments in the field, in which the wounding or death of one or the other of the participants was the goal. Now our contests are more inspiring, if not so exciting, and are for saving life, not taking it.

The Oxygen Helmet.

Seven rescue cars, fully equipped with the latest appliances and manned by picked and trained experts, will be on hand. These crews use not only all the first aid to the injured kits, but the oxygen helmet and the oxygen reviving outfit. The helmet provides for artificial breathing in the midst of smoke or poisonous gases. By means of it men can enter a mine immediately after an explosion. The reviving outfit pumps the poisons out of the lungs of an unconscious miner and supplies the life giving oxygen. Many men thought to be dead have thus been brought to life.

Most of the rescue crews are, of course, made up of miners themselves. In the first place they understand the life and are accustomed to thread the dark passages miles underground, and, in the second, they know the dangers and are accustomed to braving them. No heroism in war or peace is more thrilling than that of the man with the pick who goes back to save the lives of his comrades after a deadly explosion. He faces a thousand dangers that others can scarcely comprehend—dangers from fire, from asphyxiation, from further explosions and from falling coal or rocks loosened by the first gigantic blast that has laid his fellows low. Frequently whole companies of rescuers have been killed by a second catastrophe. Frequently they have been shut off by fire or have been overcome by the poisons before they could return to the shaft. Yet despite all these dangers, and none know them better than the men themselves, no sooner does one of these disasters occur than practically all the survivors volunteer as life savers.

The men in the mines work in constant perils that beget courage and that only brave men will face. All hail to a movement that will in any degree lessen these dangers and that will render the lot of the man with the pick somewhat more endurable!

BLUE AND GRAY TO UNITE.

Confederates and G. A. R. to Hold Peace Jubilee In 1913.

Plans were made at the reunion of the veterans of the Union and Confederate armies at Memphis for a peace jubilee and general reunion of the blue and the gray, to take place in Washington in 1913.

General John H. McDowell, commander of the Army of Tennessee, subdivision of the United Confederate Veterans' association, presided at the meeting, which was attended by 500 veterans of both sides. Commander in Chief Trimble of the Grand Army of the Republic could not be present, but sent as his personal representative Adjutant General C. R. Koch of Chicago.

When the vote was put on the proposal for a peace jubilee and general reunion at Washington it was carried by acclamation. Judge Trimble and General McDowell will each name a committee of six to arrange plans.

Electricity In Agriculture.

The British government is about to spend a considerable sum in investigating the use of electricity in agriculture. So far as wheat is concerned, the beneficial effect of electricity has already been amply demonstrated by experiments.

SHE SUFFERED FIVE YEARS

Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Erie, Pa.—"I suffered for five years from female troubles and at last was almost helpless. I went to three doctors and they did me no good, so my sister advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and when I had taken only two bottles I could see a big change, so I took six bottles and I am now strong and well again. I don't know how to express my thanks for the good it has done me and I hope all suffering women will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It was worth its weight in gold."—Mrs. J. P. ENDLICH, R. F. D. No. 7, Erie, Pa.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

HOW LANGFORD CAME TO LET CAPONI STAY.

Sam Langford journeyed to Winnipeg, Man., a few years ago to battle Tony Caponi. Winnipeg was the latter's stamping ground. The night of the fight a delegation drifted into Langford's dressing room.

"If you knock out Caponi," the spokesman announced, "the lights will go out and five men will take turns blazing away at you with their Gatlings."

Sam rolled the whites of his eyes and answered, "Yassir."

The battle started. Caponi kept wading into Sam, while the latter just stood off and jabbed. In the seventh round Caponi drove a crushing left flush on Sam's jaw. The latter got sore. He also figured that all the gun talk was "bull." Like a wild tiger he started after Caponi and with lefts and rights battered him over the ring. Measuring Tony, Sam slammed over a right, and the latter began to sink to the floor. The lights began to flicker, and suddenly all was dark.

From the ring came a loud shriek, "For goodness' sake, turn on dem lights."

And when they blazed again Sam was standing in the ring supporting Caponi. That fight went the limit.

BASKETBALL IN GOOD SHAPE.

Game Is Gradually Getting a Firm Foothold In This Country.

Organized basketball is gradually getting a foothold in the country. The Hudson River, Eastern and Central are the parent organizations, and now comes the Massachusetts State league, which is to be modified on the plans of the defunct New England league. The New England league was the leading professional league of its time.

The Hudson river circuit includes New York and New Jersey towns; the Eastern league is made up of three Philadelphia teams, one from Camden across the Delaware river from Philadelphia; a Trenton (N. J.) team and one from Reading, Pa., while the Central league includes Pittsburg and adjacent towns. In a play-off for the interleague championship last fall the Central league team won three straight from the Eastern league champions.

Syracuse to Have Junior Eight.

Syracuse university plans to have a junior eight oared shell crew next year, which may be sent to the junior varsity race at the annual American regatta rowed over the Henley course of a mile and 550 yards on the Schuylkill river, Philadelphia, the last Saturday in May.

An Address, He Thought.

TRY THIS OVERNIGHT CURE FOR COLD IN HEAD OR CHEST

It Is Curing Thousands Daily, and Saves Time and Money.

Get a bowl three quarters full of boiling water, and a towel.

Pour into the water a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI (pronounced High-o-me).

Put your head over the bowl and cover head and bowel with towel.

Breathe the vapor that arises for a few minutes, and presto! your head is as clear as a bell, and the tightness in the chest is gone.

It's a pleasant cure. You'll enjoy breathing HYOMEI. You'll feel at once its soothing, healing and beneficial effects as it passes over the inflamed and irritated membrane. 50 cents a bottle, at druggists everywhere. Ask Duane Spalsbury for extra bottle HYOMEI Inhalent.

DOCTORS FAVOR AIDING DEATH OF INCURABLES.

Advocate Promotion of Suicide as Well as Outright Euthanasia.

The deliberate aiding to suicide of hopeless sufferers is advocated by many members of the St. Louis Society of Medical Research. One physician urged legal homicide as a relief to friends and relatives afflicted with the care of incurables.

Dr. Willis Young, referring to certain cases where the physician knew the patient could not long survive and was suffering agony, declared he did not doubt the humane inclination to end that suffering on the part of the doctor would be most strong. He said that he himself might be induced, where the patient was a relative dear to him, to give the "lethal glass," but he prayed the opportunity would never come. In such personal cases Dr. Young was willing to be placed on record as advocating more than merely aiding death.

Dr. A. F. Stephens said he did not believe any man, not even the hangman, had the right to take another's life, but he did believe the hopeless sufferer who desired death should not be denied it and should be given the means to administer the end to himself.

Dr. Edward F. Brady indorsed the practice of euthanasia as an aid to death.

Dr. T. W. Conzelman declared he would not aid a patient in shuffling off, but would not do anything to preserve the life of the hopeless sufferer who desired death.

Dr. Scott Parson challenged any doctor to say he had not at some time practiced euthanasia.

"Any physician who has not practiced it has not done his duty," he said. Dr. Parsons said that, while narcotics hasten the end, they are always applied in cases of painful death and that any other course is cruel and inhuman.

MAY TALK OVER SEAS.

New Telephonic Invention Holds Great Promise.

Talking through the water from one ship to another has become possible by means of an improved wireless telephone, which is expected to replace the ordinary submarine bell signals.

Bells sounded under the sea are at present in use on all large liners, the sounds being picked up on other vessels by means of a special form of telephone.

The wireless telephone with which people will talk through the sea is quite different from the ordinary wireless telegraph which transmits signals through the water.

Far simpler and less costly and requiring no skill to operate, the telephone can be fitted up in any vessel, however small, at moderate cost, and provides a means of conversation by wireless.

In a fog a ship fitted with the wireless telephone could hear the approach of other vessels, as the sound given out by a small electric bell or other signaling device on one ship would be detected in the telephone on the other.

After flashing a signal back through the water conversation could at once be established between the two vessels.

A ship could speak with a port or lightship or lighthouse in just the same way, and submarines could keep up a continuous conversation with each other and the battleship to which they were attached.

With the aid of a new microphone for talking into it is hoped to be able to speak through the sea for twenty miles.

JUST READY TO DROP

When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, then you need help right away.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicine I ever took."

If the careworn, haggard men and women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they, too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderfully strengthening and invigorating body-builder, and we sell it under an iron-clad guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you. Weinmann-Matthews Co., 118 Congress St.

JOHN D.'S FIRST JOB.

It Is Fifty-six Years Since He Got It, but He Didn't Keep It Long.

On the fifty-sixth anniversary of the day he got his first and only job in the employ of another John D. Rockefeller held a celebration at his Forest Hill estate, Cleveland, O., and raised the stars and stripes.

Mr. Rockefeller got the job of bookkeeper in the forwarding and commission house of Hewitt & Tuttle in 1855. He proved to be a good accountant, one of the earliest and latest sort, who saw everything, forgot nothing and never talked. One year after he got the place his salary was advanced to $25 a month and he began to save money. Before another year he had gone into business.

$1,000 FOR HER BLOOD.

Woman's Suit For $20,000 For Damages by Transfusion Compromised.

Miss Clara Rickenhouse of Carlyle, Ill., received $1,000 as recompense for he transfusion of blood from her arms to the veins of the late Julia A. Sparks, a rich widow, in whose employ she had been for some time prior to her death. The young woman permitted physicians to take her blood to prolong the life of her aged employer.

She was assured, she says, that there would be no injurious results, but she was greatly enfeebled. She filed suit against the executor of the estate for $20,000 damage, but accepted one-twentieth of that amount as a compromise.

Germany's Flower City.

Erfurt, known as the Flower City, is the seat of the horticultural industry in Germany, thousands of visitors coming here each year to see the magnificent displays of plants and flowers cultivated in the local nurseries and hothouses.

Real Reason of It.

"These hanging gardens of Babylon are said to have been 300 feet in the air." "Why did the king put them so high?" "Perhaps the neighboring kings kept chickens."

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

USE WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR AND YOUR GRAY HAIR WILL QUICKLY VANISH.

GGray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said as to its beauty will offset the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients, which makes a delightful dressing for the hair, and which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out, and makes it beautiful.

All druggists are authorized to refund the money if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't neglect your hair and don't resort to old-time hair dyes. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist today, and notice the difference in your hair after a few days' use.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Weinmann-Matthews Co., 118 Congress street.

Famous Anti-Trust Shoes To Be Sold Here

Local People to Get Better Footwear at Saving of Fifty Cents to One Dollar Per Pair

MOST shoes cost more than they are worth because they pass through too many hands. Each handling adds expense and profit to the price of the shoes before they reach the wearer.

Modern business methods are making necessary radical reforms in the conduct of the shoe trade, which has been carried on for years under the most old-fashioned, long-range methods.

It is now possible to get better shoes for less money—and in order to give the people of this vicinity the best values obtainable, we have made arrangements with Endicott, Johnson & Co., the largest tanners and shoemakers in the world, for the sale of their Endwell shoes.

This company is the only shoe concern operating independent of the hide and leather trusts.

They have over two million dollars invested in their tanneries alone and are the only shoe concern tanning their own leather, both sole and uppers.

They carry over one million dollars' worth of shoes in stock all the time. From this enormous stock, comprising 700 different styles, we have our pick.

By making this deal with Endicott, Johnson & Co. we have cut out all the middlemen's profits. There is no hide dealer's profit—no tanner's profit—no leather broker's profit—no jobber's profit—no trust profits of any kind.

These things we know to be true, and we can truthfully state that Endwell shoes are made under the most ideal conditions to produce the best possible shoes at the lowest possible cost.

This enables us to state positively that we can now sell you shoes at $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00 of the very latest styles that are easily worth, both for style and wear, from fifty cents to one dollar more a pair than other shoes offered at similar prices.

Come and see the shoes for yourself.
